CHERRIER
et fils
Sancerre 2008

"Many Sancerre these days lack distinctiveness and taste more like simple Sauvignon Blanc. Not this one, which shows why the vineyards around the tiny town of Sancerre on the Loire River have such a good reputation. Sure, it has the bright zesty verve of Sauvignon Blanc, but it's real Sancerre, with layers of chalky minerality--even a smoky flinty element--and depth."

Marqués de Cáceres

RIOJA
2004 RESERVA

"This reflects the vintage in its beefy richness, while it follows Cáceres's modern style in the polish and elegance of its tannin. The fruit develops definition with air, tasting of tiny cherries and red currants. For the cellar, or give it time in a decanter for lamb chops off the grill."
